What's a Burek?

The most popular street food in the Balkans, Burek (boo-rek) is a portable, stuffed phyllo pie that's flaky on the outside and filled with easy-to-eat ingredients on the inside. The traditional phyllo dough from Serbia, paired with a side salad or yogurt for the ultimate meal.

The UnBurekable Bond

In 2025, Balkan Bites joined forces with Djerden Burek — women-led brands rooted in heritage, heart, and family. What began with three women, each inspired by the recipes of their mothers and grandmothers, grew into businesses devoted to preserving and sharing Southeast European comfort food. Balkan Bites was born from a granddaughter's tribute to her Albanian roots. Djerden Burek was founded in 1997 by a Bosnian family of refugees who turned a small bakery into a national institution. Balkan Bites is a collaboration of two generations of women, family tradition, and authentic food — made with love and meant for all.
